Full order books at BATTENFELD Injection Molding

The strategic and organizational realignment of the Austrian machine manufacturer BATTENFELD Kunststoffmaschinen Ges.m.b.H. has led to a significant upward trend in Kottlingbrunn during the first quarter.

“The first three months of this year have produced an extraordinarily high order level for Battenfeld Injection Molding,” Dr. Michael Judis, the machine manufacturer’s President and CEO, comments the company’s successful start into the K year 2007. “We have achieved a significant increase in sales compared to last year.” Thus the company’s position as one of the leading suppliers worldwide in this machinery segment has been further strengthened.

Revision of the product portfolio and concentration of injection molding technology at one location have been an integral part of a long-term forward strategy which emphasizes the company’s core competence. The current trend precisely reflects this strategy: “This tendency proves that Battenfeld Injection Molding Technology is on the right course”, says Dr. Michael Judis.
